VISION

Edna,

Well I guess its time to graduate after all these years of hard study, that I spent so much time at (ha!). I just want to tell you that all these years you have given me too much, for Birthdays, Christmas and everything else. I don't deserve it all, but thankyou anyway, I should have written this before, but I couldn't think of anything to say. I hope I can stay in college for four years, but it will be close. I know one thing, you should slow down a little, you do too much. Let your grandchildren do a little work around there. You're the best cook in the world & I think you feed them too much. If it hadn't been for you, I think my mother would have really beat me when I was small, but you stopped her every time. I probably wont be back till Christmas if I stay that long. So take care of yourself & Pat too.

Thank you for everything you have given me since I was little.

Love John

Mrs. Berman,

It was nice meeting you. John's told me a lot about you & the wonderful cherry pies you make for him. I hope to see you again soon.

Best always,
Donna

Direct us dear Lord,
Guide us on life's journey;
Direct us dear parents,
Throughout our days of learning;
Direct us dedicated teachers,
On knowledge's path so long;
Direct us loyal friends,
To build our characters strong.
Direct us with truth and love,
Thus giving us direction of self;
So that filled with humble self-direction,
We in turn can direct others,
Not for the benefit of self,
But for the common good of all;
For all life is blind,
Save when there is knowledge;
And all knowledge is vain,
Save when there is unselfish direction.

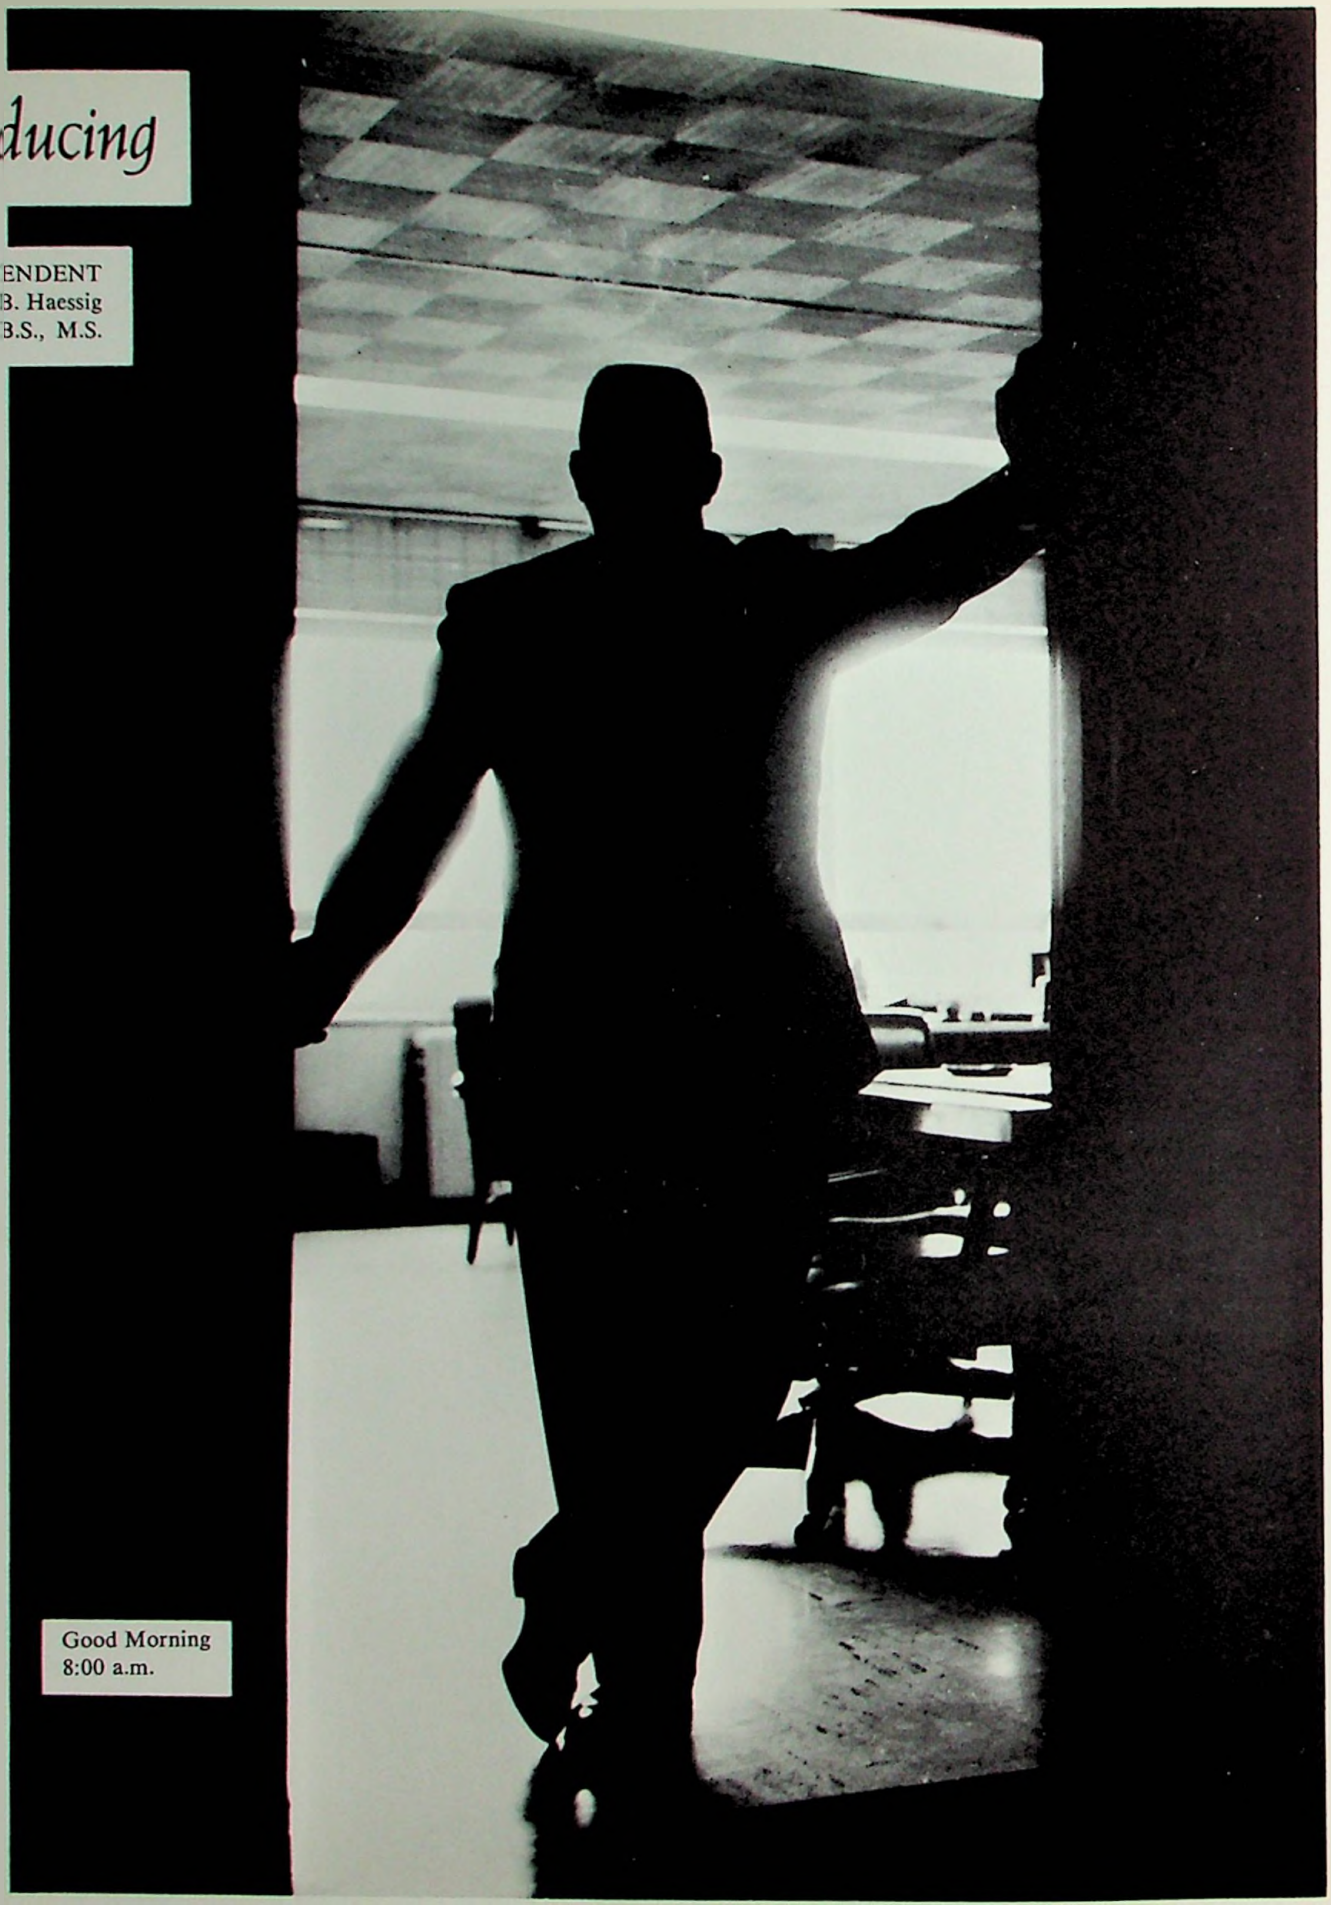
Mr. William B. Haessig
B.S., M.S.



Good Morning

a big man

We welcome
Mr. Haessig!

At his desk, 8:02 a.m.

Principals' meeting, 9:00 a.m.

Upon the position of superintendent falls the tremendous responsibility of co-ordinating the entire school system. Through his various meetings with the principals, teachers, and other school personnel, our new superintendent not only helps formulate school policy, but is also constantly planning changes and additions to improve our schools. Taking his objectives to the Board of Education, Mr. Haessig leads the discussions for their passage and execution.

Mr. Howard Davidson, Attorney; Mrs. Gertrude Hummel, Clerk; Mr. Richard Ferrand, Business Administrator.

Mr. William Haessig, Superintendent; Mr. Edward Fellinger, Mr. Wilson Grau, President.

Board of Education

Mr. Edward Anstett, Mr. John Greenwood, Mr. Kenneth Swanson, Vice-President; Mr. Walter Ferry. Absent: Mr. Royal Kinner.

Much activity occurred during the past year at the Board of Education meetings. A new superintendent, Mr. William B. Haessig, was hired and a reorganization of administrative functions was inaugurated. Under the Board's leadership, a vote on needed school facilities was passed, providing for alterations and additions to the Junior High. These buildings will be ready for occupancy by September 1963. A bond issue for the Senior High and the Bowmansville Elementary was also approved, clearing the way for the future growth of the Lancaster District #1 Schools.

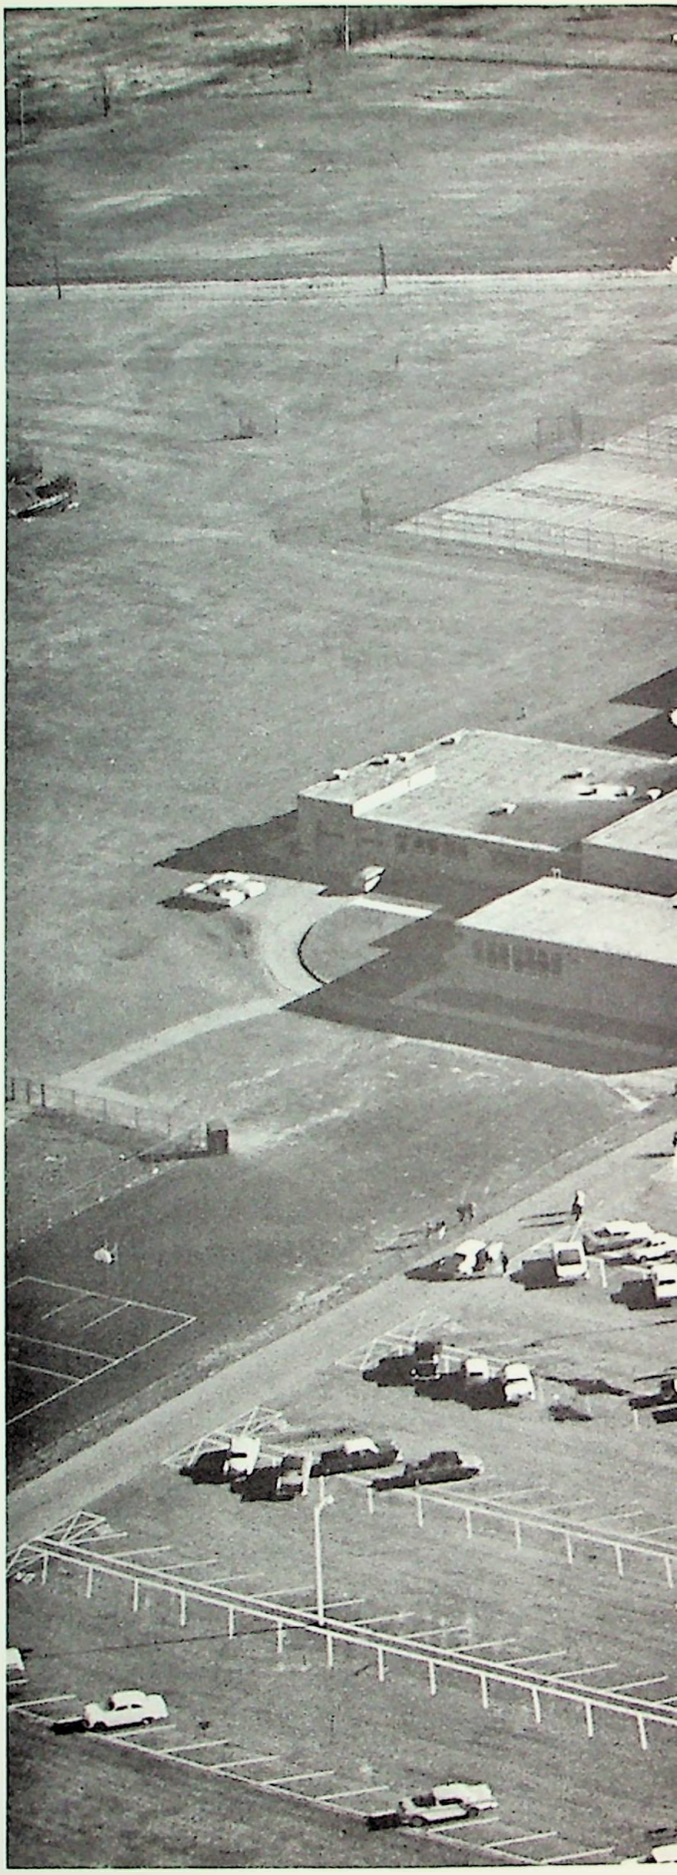
Mr. and Mrs. Becker conduct the budget meeting with Mrs. D. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Olson, and Mr. L. W. Helwig.

Parent Teachers Association

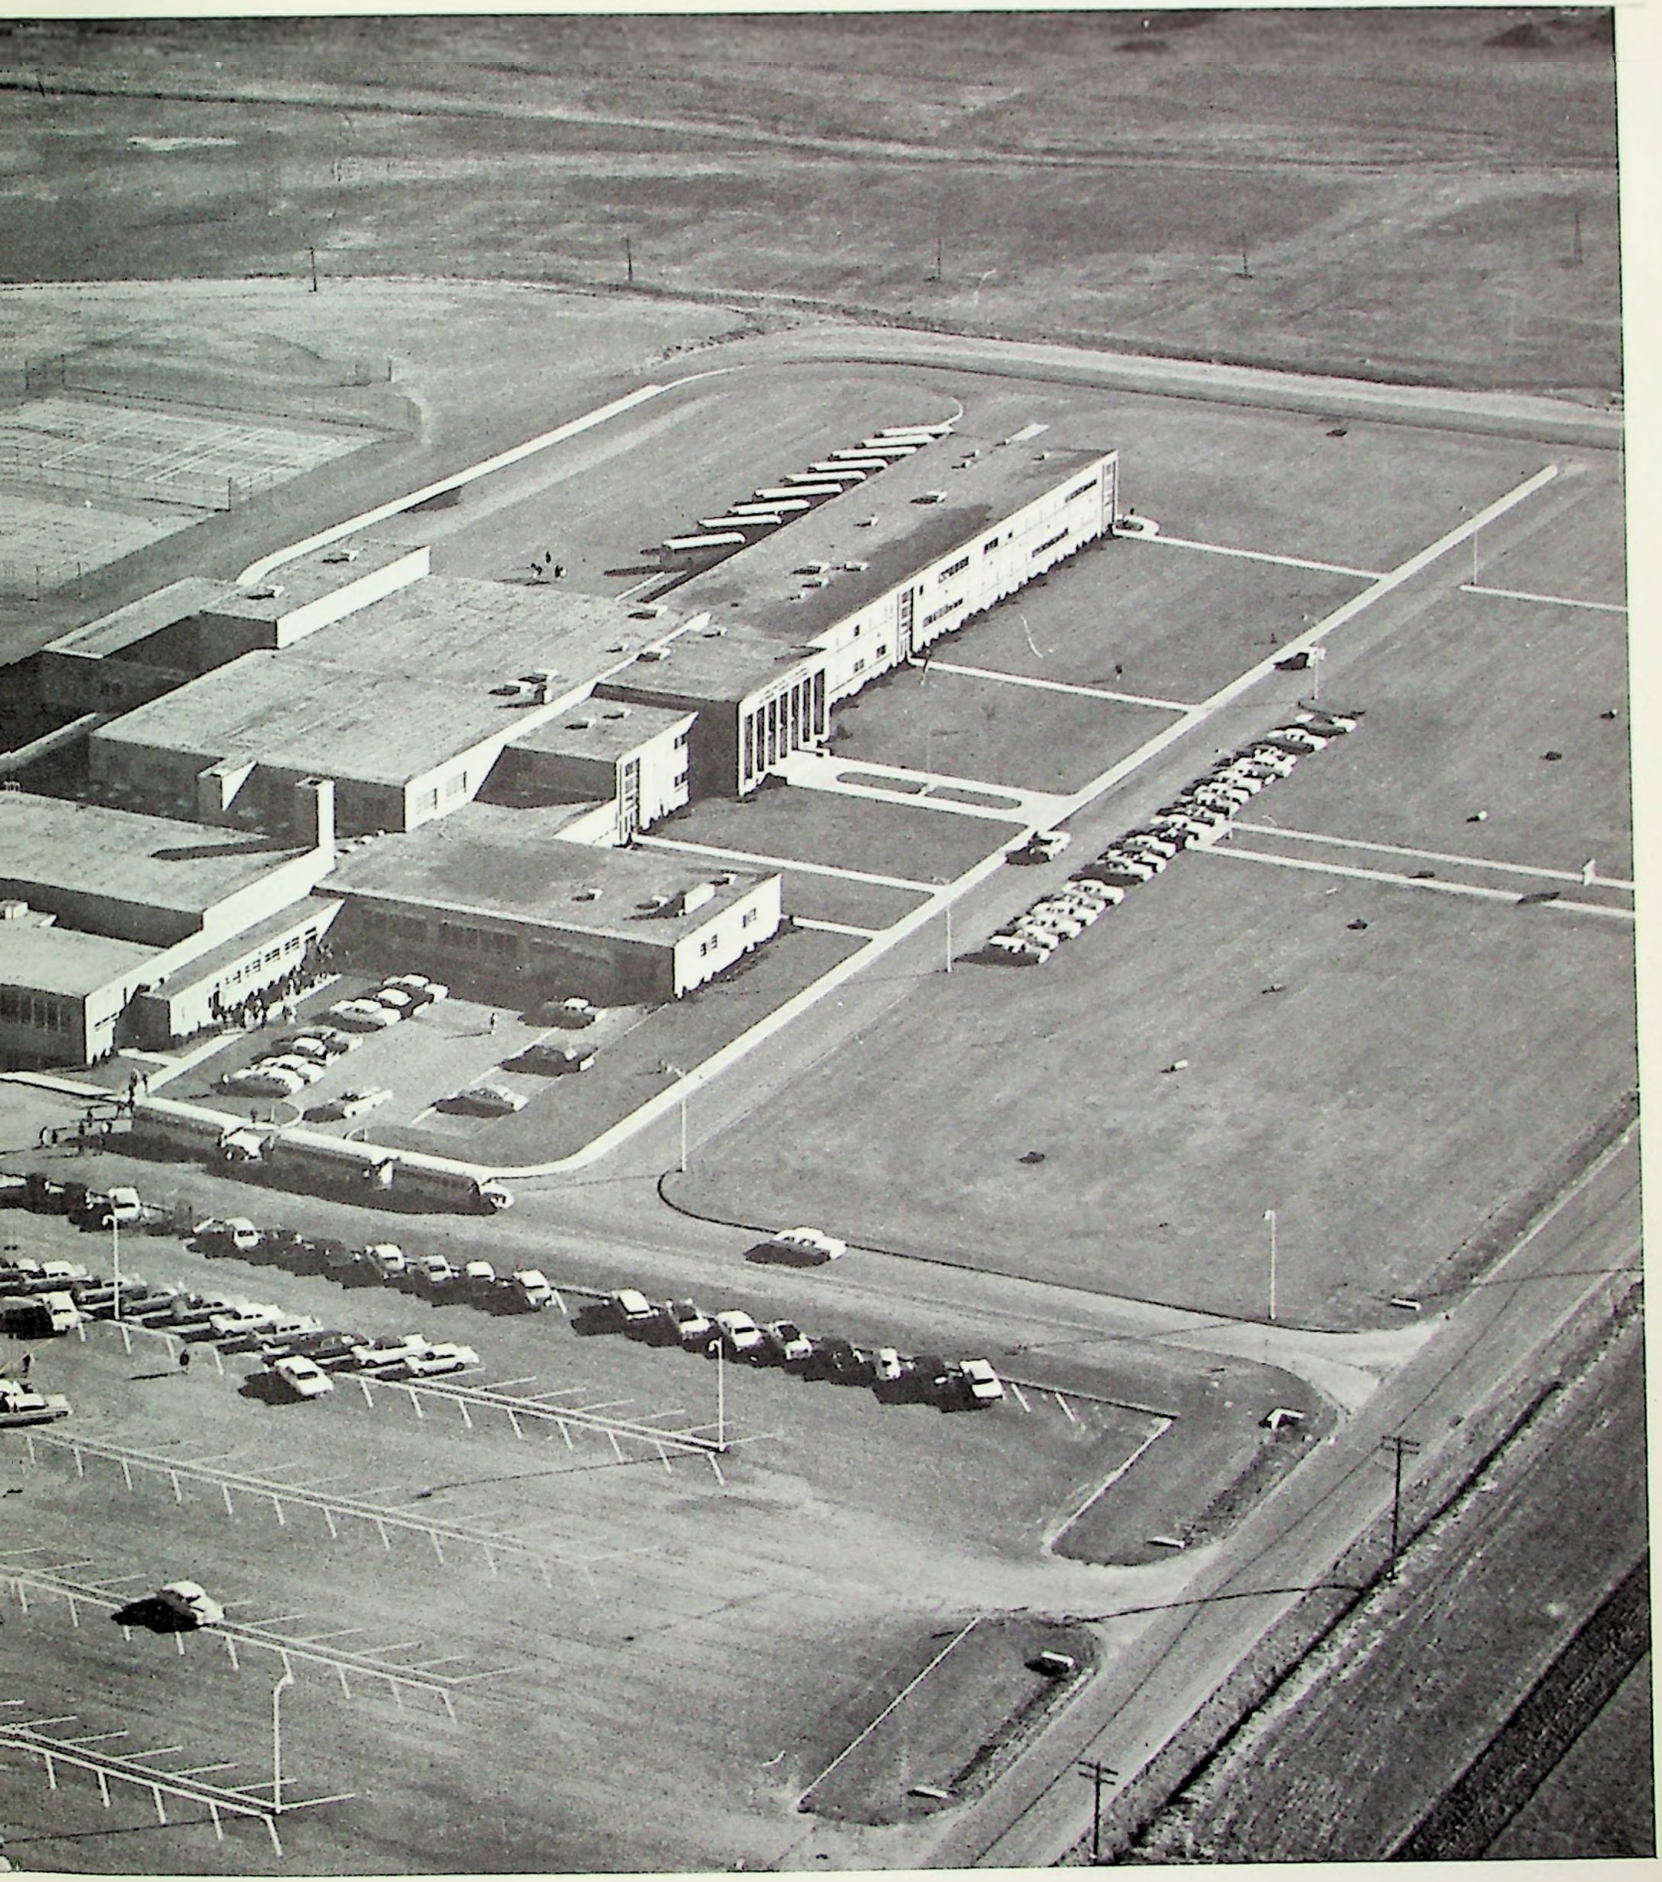
This year's P.T.A. program was highlighted by a September reception for the new superintendent and teachers, a talk on "Family Camping," one on "Mental Health," and an Exchange Student Program with speakers Marty, Elvie, and Erich. In November, the P.T.A. staged its annual pizza sale to raise funds for the yearly P.T.A. Scholarship awarded to a worthy LCSHS future teacher. This year, because of the combined efforts of members and students, there were enough profits for additional scholarships.



Mr. Herman W. Kling

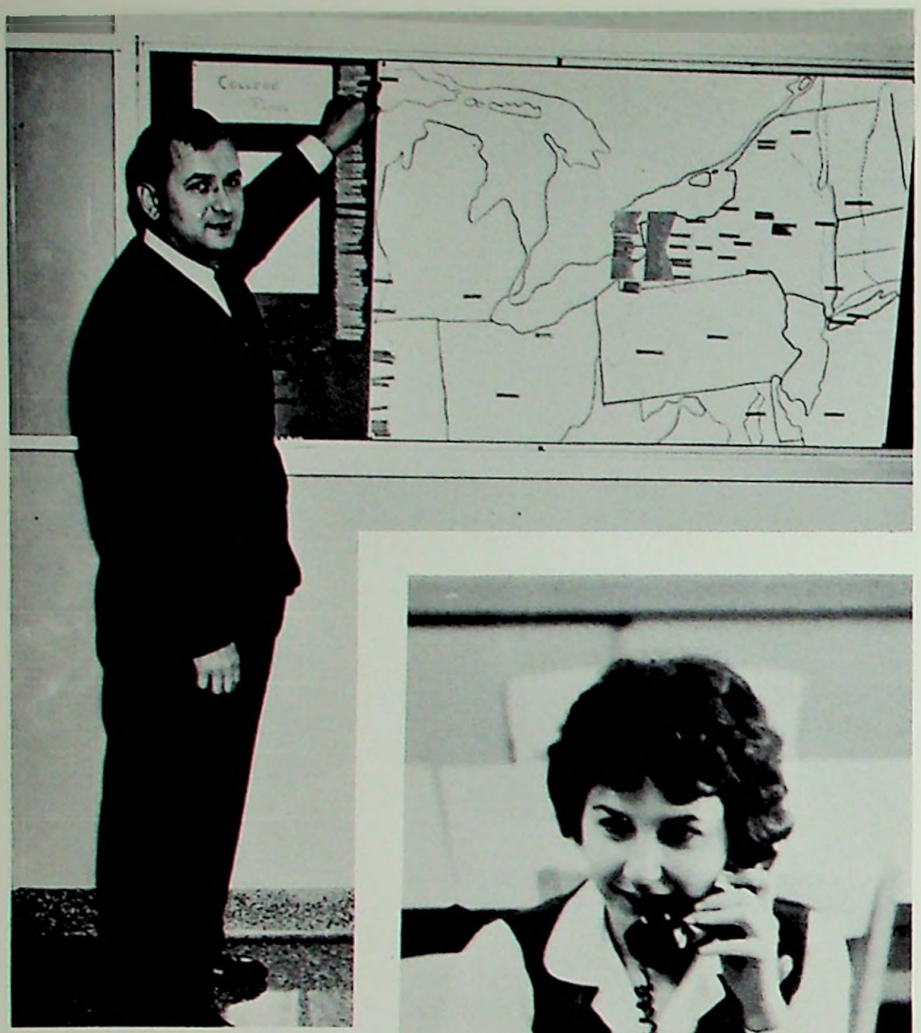
Principal

We, the class of 1963, feel that Mr. Kling is a friendly and hard working principal, who has given the dedicated service needed to efficiently run a modern senior high school. We especially commend his part this year in securing for us the "new language lab," the introduction of the Physical Fitness Program, and the spectator buses for home games. To Mr. Kling, we wish to express our appreciation for his efforts in thus improving the curriculum and facilities of our school.



Guidance

The guidance department provides the students with valuable services which help them to seek out and prepare themselves for their future places in adult life. By using the school records—aptitude and achievement tests, teacher evaluation reports, as well as health and attendance records—Miss Pritting and Mr. Simon, our counsellors, aid the pupils in choosing and scheduling their subjects and selecting their vocations.



Mr. F. Simon displays a map showing the colleges being attended by current Lancaster graduates.

Miss D. Pritting discusses a student's school program with an interested parent.

Mrs. M. Schmitz is vital to the efficient functioning of the guidance office. She also willingly and graciously assists students whenever possible.

At the guidance office an up-to-date library of occupational, educational, and scholarship data is available upon request.

Health and Attendance

Seated: Mrs. H. Vasbinder, Nurse; Mrs. B. Fox and Mr. R. Wright, Attendance.

Dr. A. Addesa, School Physician.

Health and attendance—two important services—four important people, working together to keep us happy, healthy, and here. Thank you!

The daily attendance card keeps an accurate record of each student's presence. As shown at the right (solid blocks), this one also reveals all the school holidays.

Upon winning three Latin pins in the annual Nationwide Latin Examination, the school was awarded a trophy by the Association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin. Under the direction of Miss Theresa Ryba, the winners of this honor were Carolyn Uzar, Arvo Tars, and John Peer, with respective scores of 115, 116, and 115 out of a possible 120.

Awards

J. Filipowicz; W. Moeller; Mr. L. Koester, Adviser; C. Grimm; B. Tucker.

Dale Taylor, competing against ninety students, took first place at Alfred Tech's Annual Fall Festival typing contest. She achieved a rate of 58 net words per minute, thus winning a $25 Savings Bond and a medal. Dale believes that without the help and encouragement of her commercial teachers, Miss Marion Warner, Miss Eleanor Smedley, and Miss Ann Shoemaker, her accomplishment would not have been possible.

Competing against twenty-one other schools, Cheryl Grimm, representing Lancaster, placed first in sales demonstrations in the annual Distributive Educational Clubs of America (DECA) Retailing Contest. She won a $50 War Bond, a trophy, and a trip to New York City to compete in the state finals. Others from Lancaster were Betty Tucker, Jane Filipowicz, and William Moeller participating respectively in the business math, display judging, and job interview contests.

Mrs. D. Spanitz, Secretary, and Mr. C. Debbins, Night School Supervisor.

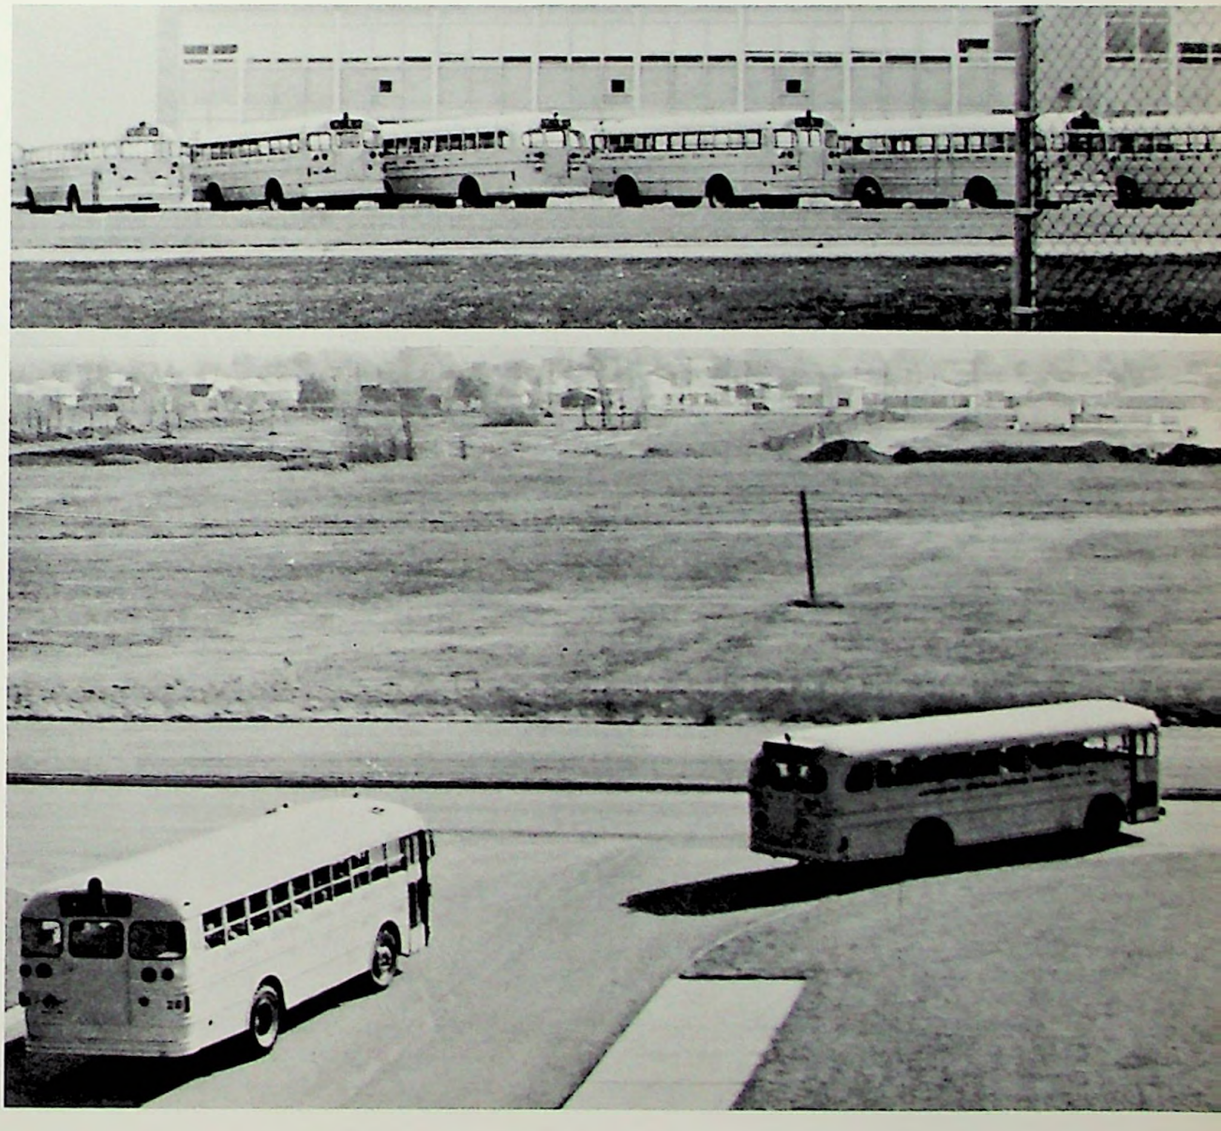
Adult Education

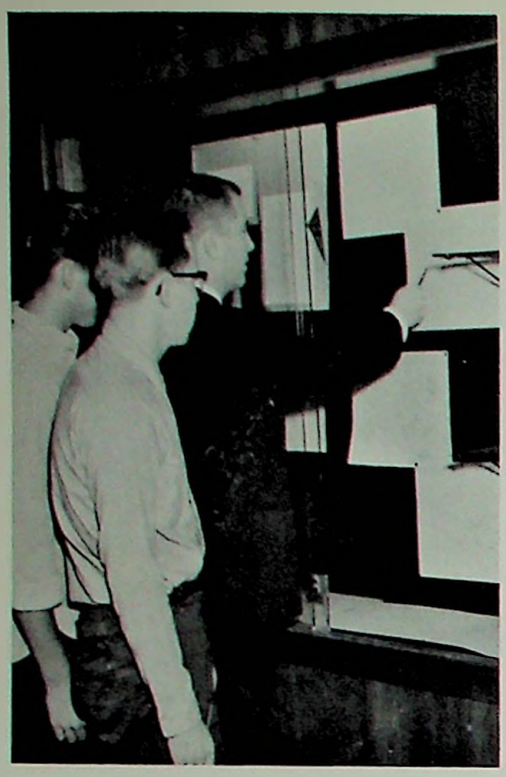
LCSHS continues its teaching program in the evenings with the adult education classes. The curriculum is diversified with courses ranging from social dancing to Americanization classes.

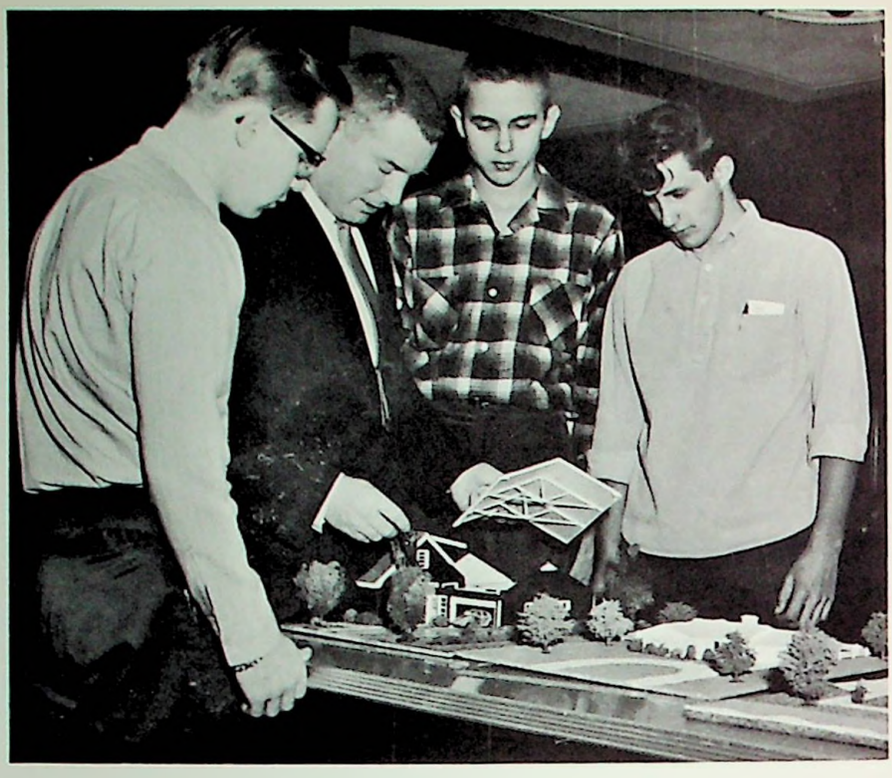


They're off!

Buses

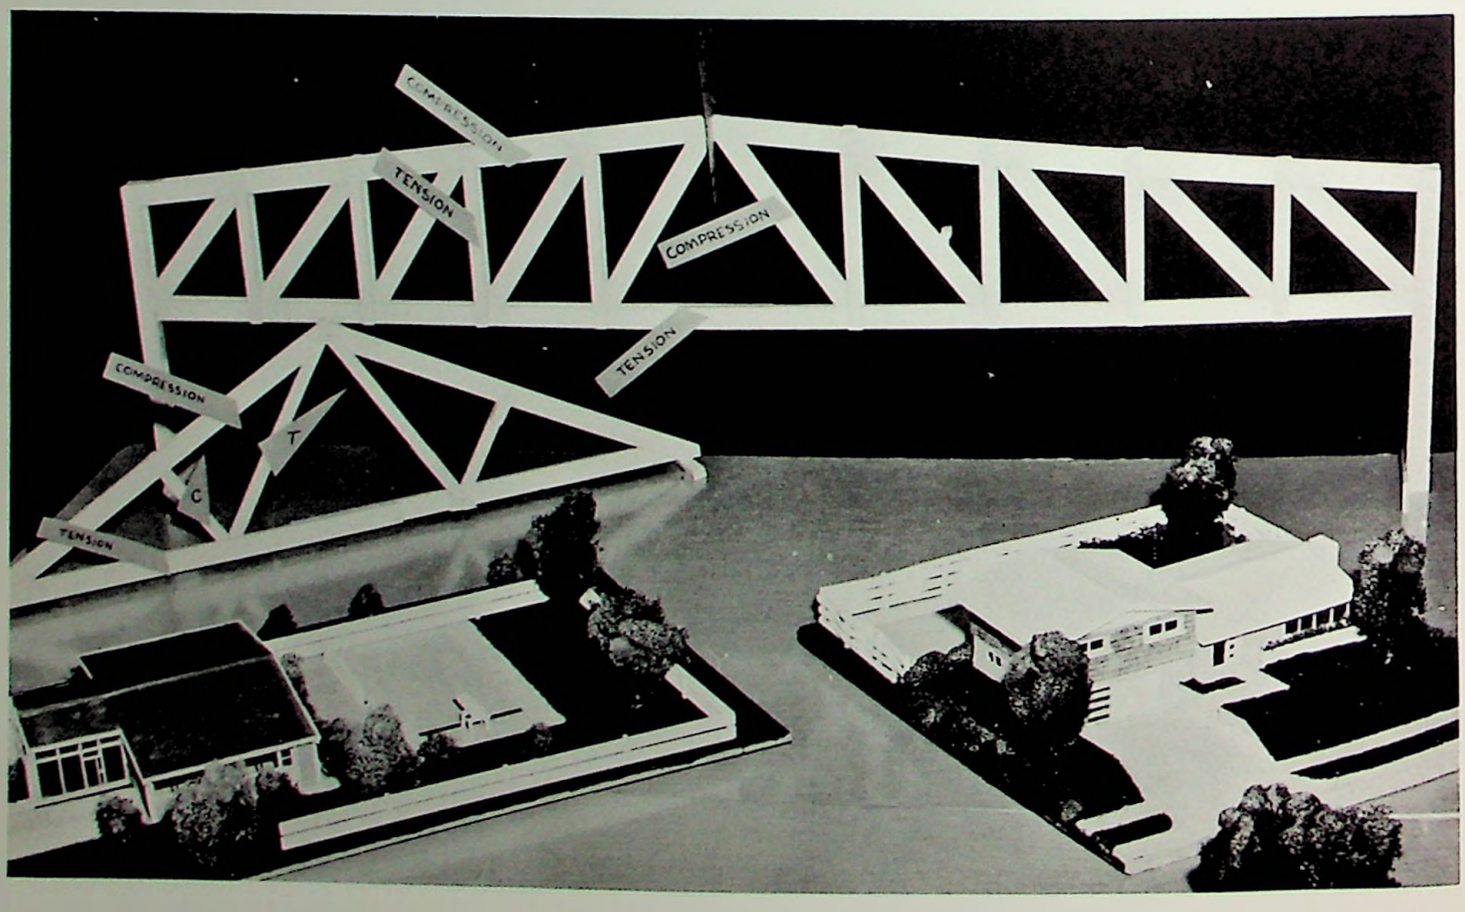
Daily bus transportation to and from school is enjoyed by our students. Through their efficient operation school runs on schedule.

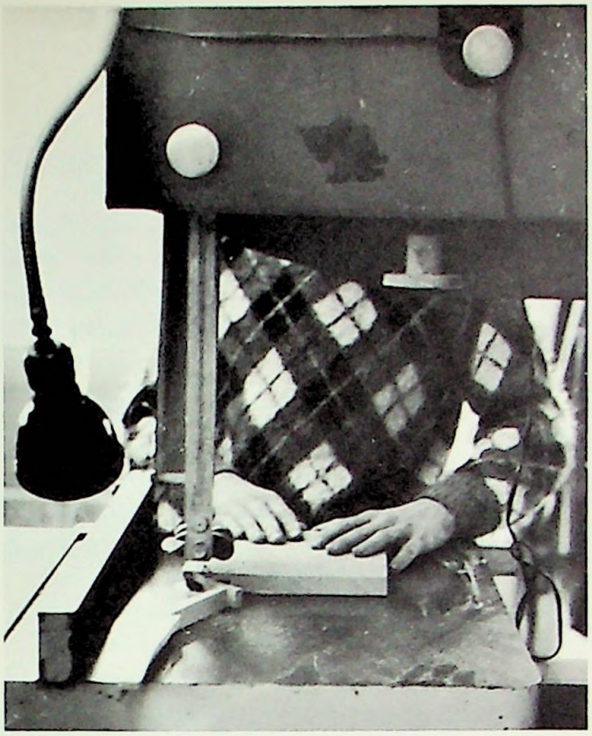




Architectural Drawing

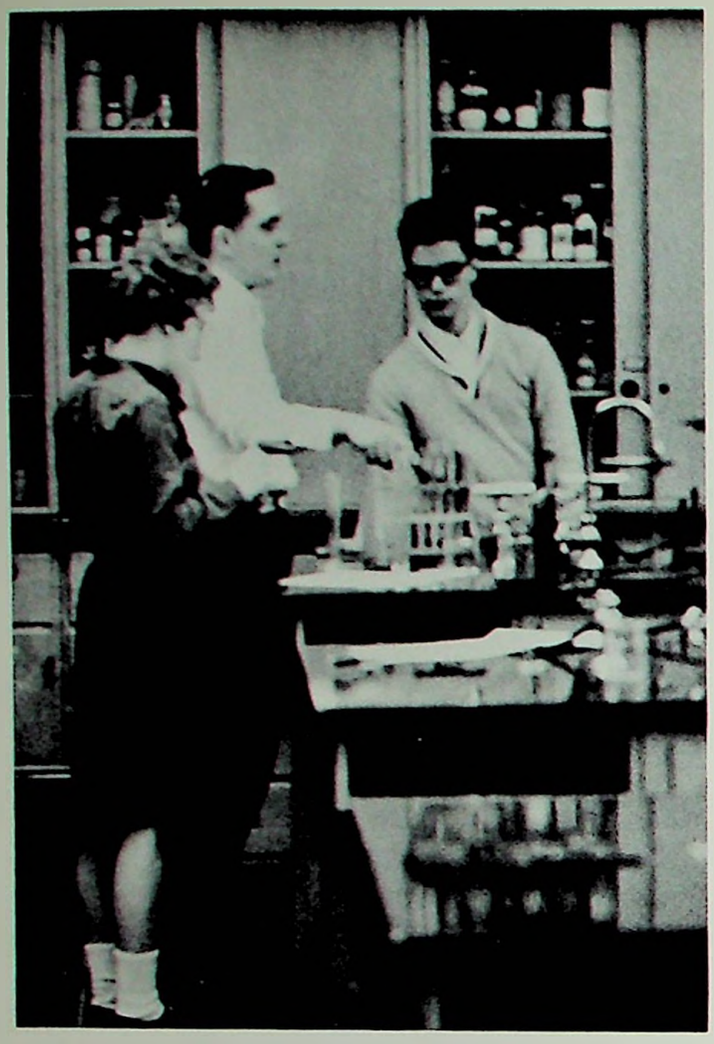
The architectural drawing course gives the student experience through designing, drawing, illustrating, specifying, and estimating requirements for a building of his own design. This is important because the largest single purchase the student as an adult may make is his family home. Study and research in this area will help him make a wiser consumer decision. Also for the student who intends to pursue a career in the architectural field as an architect, builder, or engineer, the experience gained in this course may enable him to determine his preference for further study.





Wood Shop

Under the supervision of Mr. Norman Symington the proper use of tools and many "tricks of the trade" are taught. Special emphasis is placed on skill and craftsmanship.

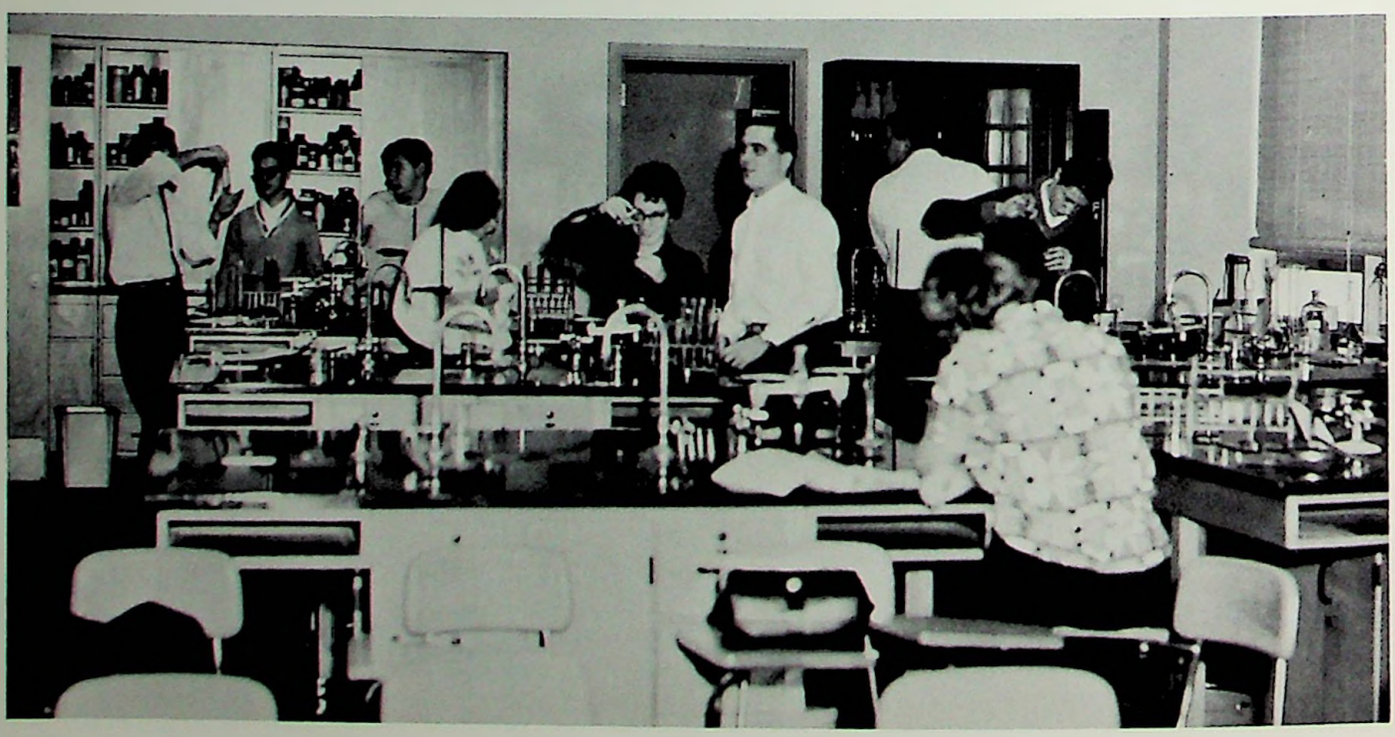


Showing the how and why.

Science Research Class

By attending the Saturday morning research classes, many students greatly augment their scientific knowledge. Choosing individual research projects, these pupils conduct their own experiments under the direct guidance of our science teachers, and may then enter their finished work in the Annual Science Congress. This group has also gone on field trips that have ranged from nature walks at Akron and Lackawanna to the U.B. trip, concentrated entirely on chemistry. With its varied program of research and field trips, the Saturday science classes not only increase a student's knowledge, but also his discriminative ability.

Experimentation and observation.



Library

Through the conscientious work of Miss Snyder, Mrs. Greenwood, and their student assistants, our modern library is made a pleasant research room.

Dedication

"We count on the dedicated men and women in our schools to impart knowledge, enthusiasm, and a sense of spiritual values to the young and thus continually help to develop a strong and enlightened citizenry."

Dwight D. Eisenhower

We, the graduating class of Lancaster, consider ourselves most fortunate in having received what we believe was that type of guidance from our teachers at Lancaster. We, therefore, respectfully dedicate this 1963 CAYUGAN to two outstanding teachers, Miss Marie Diana and Mr. James Kelleher who, by their excellent teaching, have provided us with a valuable start toward our goal in becoming part of that "strong and enlightened citizenry."

MR. KELLEHER, during his years at Lancaster, has helped to present a significant and valuable insight into America's past, her present, and perhaps her future. His wide knowledge of American government sparks the interest of many students. Through his method of teaching, independent thinking on the part of the individual is encouraged. Thus, students as our future citizens are made aware of the problems facing their nation.

MISS DIANA's teaching years at Lancaster have proved to be of great value to her students. Through her dedication and hard work, world history is made interesting and profitable. She makes it easier to learn difficult subject matter by mixing humor with strictness, thus encouraging a relaxed and enjoyable class atmosphere. Through motivation, example, and encouragement, Miss Diana draws the best from each individual and sends them on toward their higher goals with better trained minds and improved attitudes.

As we approach graduation, we realize that we must rely on our own Self-Direction.

Naturally we wonder where our destinies lie.

The answer depends upon how well
we have and will adapt the guidance of others to our own individual lives.

Appreciation

We wish to thank Miss Mabel Bates. We appreciate the many hours of dedicated effort she has put into the creation of our 1963 Cayugan, thus making it possible for us to have a tangible remembrance of our years at LCSHS.

The members of the Senior Class wish to extend heartfelt thanks and appreciation to Mr. Leo Koester. Since our sophomore year, he has given us his valuable assistance as class adviser. Without his inspiration and guidance many of our achievements would not have been realized. THANKS, "Pop," for guiding us through these important years!

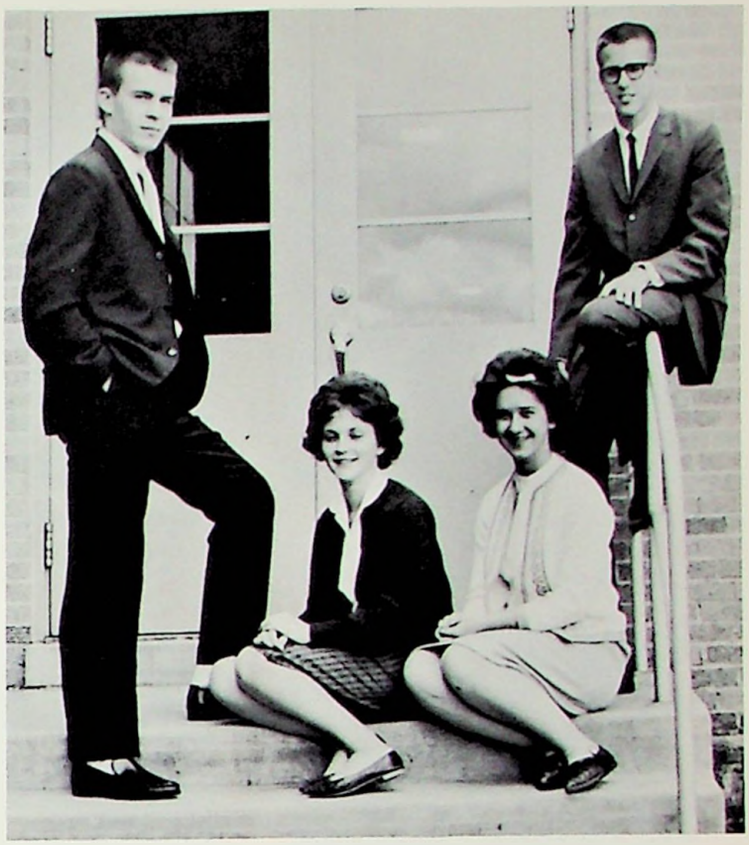
Class of 1963

History

We began our senior high years with a complete slate of officers elected at the junior high. They were: John Peer, President; Janice Small, Vice-President; Rinet Zajac, Secretary; and Paul Garland, Treasurer. After Mr. Koester accepted the post of class adviser, he installed a new bookkeeping system to last our three years. The year's highlight was a free splash party financed by our profits from the annual magazine sale.

Our Junior year activities started with a Valentine Dance. Under the leadership of our new officers (David Mustard, President; Janice Small, Vice-President; Sandra Smith, Treasurer; and Geraldine Malczoz, Secretary), we worked hard with the seniors to make the Junior-Senior Prom a big success. "Misty" was climaxed by the reign of King Bob Hammersmith and Queen Marty Conklin. At the Ring Dance—June 1, 1962—we broke precedent by receiving our class rings as our junior days terminated. Thus we symbolically became Seniors.

With officers David Mustard, President; Martha Kinner, Vice-President; Marlene Bowman, Secretary; Richard Martzolf, Treasurer; and Janice Small, Social Chairman, we inaugurated our final year with the "Great Pumpkin Dance" which was followed by the annual "Snow-Flake Swirl." The Junior-Senior Prom put a finishing touch on three happy years of activities. As we look forward to our graduation, we also reflect over these memorable years, realizing that we will cherish them throughout our lives.



D. Mustard, President; M. Bowman, Secretary; J. Small, Social Chairman; R. Martzolf, Treasurer. Absent: AFS student to Germany. M. Kinner, Vice-President.

Ring Dance --

June 1, 1962

At last!
The big moment.
Now we're SENIORS!

The class of '63 was given the privilege of receiving senior rings at the end of their junior year. This gave students an opportunity to enjoy the rings during the entire senior year at LCSHS. Rings were presented by Mr. Koester and the class officers at the annual Ring Dance.

Electronic Classroom

This year Miss Ryba's language students had the opportunity to use the new electronic classroom. Each desk converts into a booth with a separate earphone set and microphone. This device is a new approach to language teaching which enables the students to hear tapes and records of native speakers, as well as the voice of their teacher.

American Field Service

The American Field Service Club, under the direction of Mrs. G. Knoll, plays an active roll in assisting our foreign exchange students and in stimulating interest in our own students to apply for A.F.S. It is also responsible for $300 aid for this program. To further these aims, this organization sponsored the "Handaa-Fest," a welcoming dance for Elvie and Erich, a welcome home dance for Marty Kinner, sold refreshments at the basketball games, and presented the movie, "The Mouse That Roared." Through its well balanced social activities and financial projects, the A.F.S. Club has proved its worth.

MARTHA KINNER

To Kiel, Germany

Aug. 1962 - Jan. 1963

My family—Peter, Mom, Margret, Dad.

Below: Margot, our best girl-friend and Margret, my sister.

Kiel, my home city in Germany, has a latitude equal to that of the Hudson Bay region of Canada. The other marked cities are those which I visited.

My wonderful and memorable experience as one of the 81 AFSers headed for Germany began in August 1962. Our ten days aboard the Dutch ship, "Seven Seas," were filled with language and orientation classes, entertainment and fun, but most of all, anticipation.

My life as a German "Fräulein" began on September 1st. I lived in Elmschenhagen, a suburb of Kiel, which is a beautiful seaport located on the Baltic Sea. During World War II, 80% of Kiel was destroyed. Thus Kiel today is modern but still retains its old world flavor. This combination is fascinating. "Mutti and Vati" Puls, my 16 year old sister, Margret, and I lived in our own home. Peter, my twenty-two year old brother, came home occasionally from the army. An acute housing shortage in Germany causes most of the people to live in apartment houses. I was treated as their daughter and sister and feel very proud to have been placed with such a fine family. Vati is a "steinmetzmeister." In English that means that his business is engraving, displaying, and selling gravestones.

Six days weekly from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Margret and I attended a German "gymnasium," comparable to our high school. When the weather permitted, we rode bicycles. Otherwise we took a bus and then a streetcar. I was in the "Untersekunde" or tenth year. To take one's "Abitur," or final examination (required to enter a university), one must complete 13 years of schooling. Those who do not wish to enter college leave the gymnasium after the tenth year and enter trade schools to learn their vocations. Our curriculum consisted of 13 subjects: math, English, French, German, history, geography, biology, art, music, religion, Latin, physics, and chemistry. Some of these subjects were studied three times a week; others only once. "Electives" were unheard of. Contrary to the American system of changing classes, the teachers came to us. Thus we remained in the same room for almost the entire day. Between periods there was a ten minute recess during which we went outside on the school yard.

At first I noticed the lack of extra-curricular activities associated with United States schools. A German student's social life is completely separate from school. His closest friends may be those who do not attend his school, but rather live in the vicinity of his home.

The strict and proper European formality that I had heard of was not as severe as I had expected. The customs and habits were, however, not as informal as are found here. No matter how many times we saw a person daily, we shook his hand. As the teacher entered the class, we stood, said "Good Morning," and sat down only after permission had been given. Girls up to about the age of 16 made a little bow when shaking hands with an older person.

Our AFS evaluation period was spent in the bustling metropolis of West Berlin. The highlight of the week was our bus tour through the East sector. Our chaperones had to ride another bus just because they were West Germans! As we crossed the "Wall of Shame," a hireling of the Red City boarded the bus. He, of course, guided us only through the best parts. The sights even then were sad ones. The city seemed dead. Only a few older people were on the streets. People were not entering or leaving the sometimes attractive but unpatronized shops. Red communist flags were everywhere one looked. Huge impressive red and white signs with inscriptions such as "Socialism is the only future of a united, democratic Germany" were on all sides. The longer this absurd wall is left standing, the more the people of Germany, and especially of Berlin, are becoming frustrated and impatient for its removal.

I fully recommend the whole year study program to future AFS students. After five and a half months in Germany, I was just beginning to feel comfortable with the language, to participate relatively well in school, and to feel fully conformed to the new life. An AFS experience is a priceless adventure. We students are extremely fortunate individuals. We must always remember this to keep us trying to do our best. "Once an AFSer, always an AFSer." I loved it and hope someday to return. The AFS movement is magnificent!

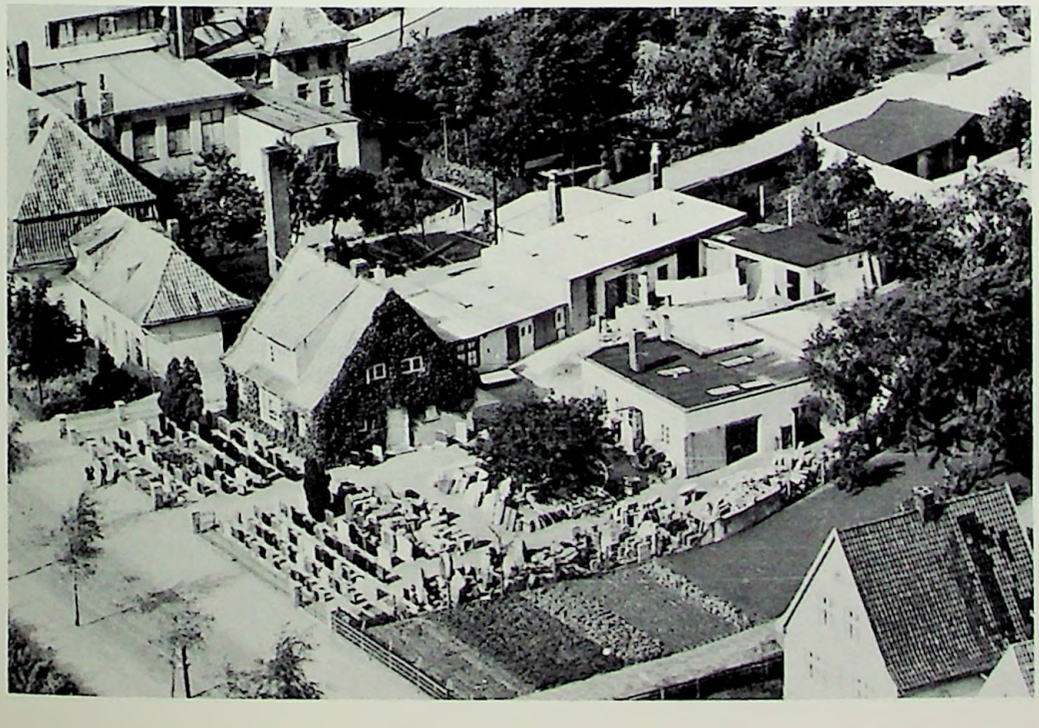
The dining room



The language camp has a religious affiliation with the Protestant Church of Germany. Only those groups having a definite purpose as study, conventions, etc. may use the facilities. We attended classes in the morning and afternoon. In our free time we took walks, wrote letters, and had fun together.

The ivy-covered, tile roofed house on the left is the home of my German family in Elmschenhagen. Notice the gravestones on display at the front of the house. The buildings in the rear are the work shops of approximately 12 men who engrave and finish the monuments.

Our Flag

There is an ancient Filipino legend which tells how the continents and islands of the earth were made. Long ago, so the story runs, a powerful giant carried the universe on his broad shoulders. One day, in a fit of anger, he threw his heavy burden into the vast blue sea. When it struck the water, it broke into countless pieces. The pieces of land that struck up above the surface of the sea, formed the continents and islands of the earth. Some of the smaller pieces formed the islands of the Philippines.

Exchange Student -- Philippines

1962 ELVIRA MANUEL 1963

Nine thousand miles away there is a country with an area of 714,830 square miles divided into 7,110 islands. There 27½ million freedom-loving Filipinos eat, live, and love as they desire. Through their national language, "Tagalog," they communicate with one another. It is said that these people are mothered by the East with its languor and mysticism, its passivity and endurance, and are sired by the West with the cross and the sword and the machine.

In 1521 Magellan discovered the Philippines. Before its discovery, Malayans and Indonesians migrated to these islands. Then, for nearly 400 years Spain ruled the Philippines bringing Christianity and western ideas. After the Spanish-American War of 1898, our country was ceded to the United States. It remained an American possession until Independence was granted and a republic was born on July 4, 1946.

We now believe in a republican form of government. Our flag flies triumphantly in every government building. It is very symbolic. Each motif on that piece of cloth has a meaning. The sun stands for liberty and freedom. The three stars represent the unity of the three islands—Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao. The eight rays of the sun are symbolic of the eight provinces which revolted against the Spaniards. Of its colors, red signifies the blood shed by the Filipino patriots; white stands for purity; blue for peace and contentment.

Come and see the Philippines! Enjoy its tropical climate. Cool off on the beaches, in our lakes, rivers, and swimming pools that abound the archipelago. Enjoy the sweet aroma of the exotic flowers in their numerous shapes and colors. String the sampaguita and wear it around your neck. Let's go native, I'll wear our traditional costume for the woman, a "saya" with its butterfly sleeves and low neckline. You wear our native men's suit, the "barong tagalog," a thin loose embroidered overshirt and regular trousers. Notice as we walk along the kind of houses in the country. We call them "nipa huts." Don't be amazed if you come to know that a family of six lives in this nipa.

Now let's attend a town feast. This is one of our native customs. Look at the luscious food on the table. The table is arrayed with a roast suckling pig with an apple in its mouth; that is the native dish "adobo," a mixed spiced pork and chicken; this is a tempting baked fish with raisins, minced onions and a stuffing inside which is called "tortilla." We also have rice at every meal as well as lobsters, shrimps, and crabs which are served almost daily instead of meat. Rice comes in red, purple, brown, and white colors. Some kinds of rice are sticky when served. For beverages we have tall glasses of cool coconut milk and fruit juices. For dessert we have leche flan (baked custard in caramel sauce), candied fruit, and different fruits, as the santol, langka, and guavas in sugar syrup.

Now let's go and see a procession. The image of the saint goes first, carried on a small platform surrounded by flickering candles and fresh cut flowers. Behind it Catholics carry candles and sing and say prayers. Paper lanterns overhead flicker like giant fireflies in the twilight. No people delight in the stirring of the band more than the Filipinos and one plays here. Look, there are the ferris wheel, side shows and circus. Gaiety characterizes every Filipino feast.

We also have our love of beauty in other forms. Dressed in costumes, we perform our dances true to the tradition of the East. A flutter of the hand, a sway of the body conveys a message to the beholder of varying attitudes of life and love and courtship.

Now we must visit the city. What a vivid contrast of the old and the new! Here is a fine example of Spanish architecture with tall, modern, functional buildings; further on a neon-fronted night club; close by a colorful open market; in many places are found colleges and universities, modern hospitals, and beautiful churches.

Below—my family

Today the many civilizations meet and mingle. The fun loving, warmhearted Filipino easily adopts whatever is pleasant and appropriate to his way of life. I miss my country and people but I have fallen in love with the United States and especially Lancaster with its wonderful people. I'll go home with a new idea of the U.S. and be able to tell my countrymen what the U.S. is really like. The many misconceptions which I and my countrymen have, I will try to correct. This has truly been a very rewarding year. I owe it to all of you, particularly to my American family, the Wolkos, friends, and schoolmates.

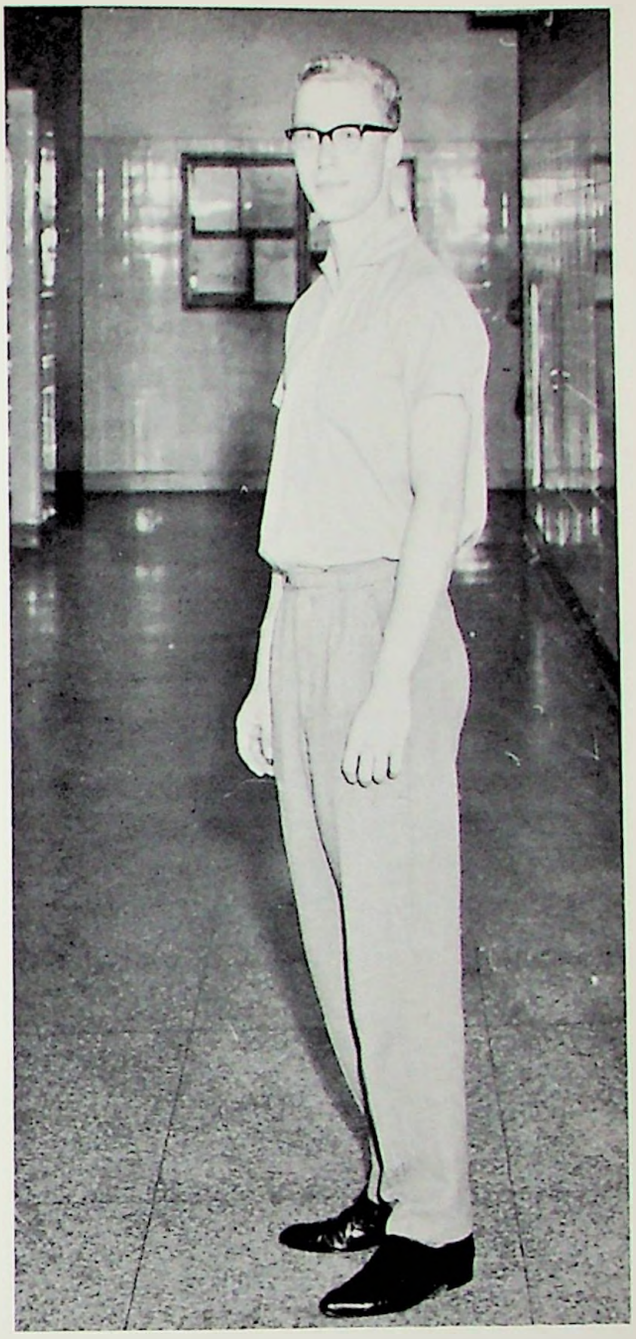
ERICH STEINBERGER

From Germany 1962 - 1963

I am the only child of our family. My mother is a busy housewife; my father a traveling salesman who sells blueprinting machines and optical goods. Until 1952 we lived in Berlin. Then we moved to Bielefeld near Hanover.

I entered high school when I was eleven years old. In my first year I had to take English as a foreign language besides math, physics, history, geography, music, art, gym, and German. My schedule gradually expanded to include Latin, French and chemistry. School sessions are from 7:50 a.m. to 1 p.m. Lunch is at home. I do my homework afternoons until 8 or 9 p.m. You can imagine how strange your school system was to me. Your privilege of dropping subjects would be unheard of in a German school. When I go home in June, I will have to complete two and a half years of high school since I will lose this year completely. Our students are usually twenty when they graduate, but I will be twenty-one.

Another strange thing for me were the girls in high school. Imagine how I felt when I saw hundreds of nice girls around me! Our high schools are only boys' or girls' schools, and the girls' school is a mile away. The result is we don't have the dating system. Sometimes on Sunday a boy takes a girl to the show, but that's all. No regular dates, no going steady! The girls usually stay at home evenings; the boys walk through the streets or stay home too. I myself go to track practice every evening. Besides this I sometimes play my violin, that is, when no one's home. On weekends I go to a show, walk around with some companions or join my parents in visiting friends. That is one thing I could not find here. In the American family life the boys have more freedom. We have to participate more in family activities, while we live at home. The fact is that the German family life is a tighter knit unit.



It was exciting and interesting for me to make these discoveries. I have learned about your home life, schools, and customs. This knowledge has deepened my appreciation and understanding of our ways of life.

The AFS, my American community and my parents made this possible for me. I have tried with all my heart to profit from this experience because I can only be an AFS student once. I never will forget my stay in the United States.

National Honor Society

Miss Diana, Adviser.

Receiving its charter in 1950, the National Honor Society has always exemplified the students' highest qualities of Scholarship, Character, Leadership, and Service. These prerequisites for membership are:

Scholarship—displaying a zeal to learn inquisitively and thoroughly beyond the classroom.

Character—possessing personal integrity and probity.

Leadership—showing the correct way by good example and sound judgment.

Service—participating constructively to fulfill the aim of a group.

Just as members display these qualities before their election, they are strictly held to these principles during membership. To do this they must continually endeavor to wear their distinction with honor and modesty while incesssantly striving for self-improvement.

Under the direction of Miss Diana, the N.H.S. annually sells school pictures and assists in any capacity it can at school functions.

Key Club

The Key Club has always striven to instill leadership in its members by undertaking service projects for the school. Under the able advising of Mr. Nitchke, this club has sponsored school programs such as the "High School Bowl" and the daily flag-raising. Using the profits from its many financial projects (e.g. the Key Club Directory), the Key Club has given sums of money to the American Field Service and has bought the school a $160 mannikin, used to teach mouth to mouth resuscitation. Through these projects the Key Club has proven itself to be a fine asset to the faculty and the student body.

Phases of mathematics beyond the regular curriculum are explained and discussed by members of the Math Club. Aided by Mr. Lindsay, their adviser, the students do their own research and then report at the bi-weekly meetings.

This past year found the F.T.C., under the guidance of Mr. Roessel, involved in a number of activities. The group heard talks given by a student teacher and a college student. They made a field trip to Buffalo State and had a visitation day in area schools to observe different grade levels. The club discusses college entrance problems and gives those interested in becoming teachers a close-up view of the profession.

The F.N.C. has been organized to help those girls interested in nursing develop an understanding of the duties involved in the nursing profession. In November the members took an enjoyable and worthwhile field trip to the Millard Fillmore Hospital. The tour of the hospital included the nurses' building. This group also participated in a Red Cross First Aid course. To increase their treasury, the club held a cookie sale for open house night and sold school pins. Under the direction of our school nurse, Mrs. Vasbinder, the F.N.C. has been a most successful organization.

Physical Fitness

In accordance with President Kennedy's physical fitness program, Mr. Foyle and Mr. Olszewski have installed a rigorous exercise system. Carefully administered Marine Corps tests and a two mile endurance run check the progress of each boy. On their own time and with self-discipline, the advanced group climaxes the program through weight and isometric training in the field house.

Soccer

With more boys coming out for soccer than ever before, this year's team surprised the school by winning the Section VI championship. Mr. Roesch, in only his second year as team coach, molded these boys into a winning team with a won 5, lost 7, and tied 2 record. No previous Lancaster soccer team ever won more than one game. Although All-Star Erich Steinberger anchored the offensive line, it was the defense that carried the team through the season. The defensive mainstays were second team All-Star George Allen and goalie Dick Martzolf, whose five shutouts were a large factor in bringing the season to a rewarding close.

Cross Country

The Lancaster Cross Country Team, with only one senior, Charles Stachitus, managed to come through with a won 4, lost 1 season record. The squad placed sixth at the Buffalo State Invitational Meet and took fifth place in the sectionals. With their best harriers, sophomore Jim Hughes and freshman Ed Webster, returning, next season's team should be very good.

Our 1962 Varsity Football Team was led by second team All-Star John Greenwood along with Val Samulski, Glenn Schilling, Joe Poisella, and Bill Uhl, all of whom received honorable mention. The squad completed its season with a won 2, lost 6 record. These two key wins, however, made the season a success. After dropping the first three games, the Redskins rallied to beat a tough Amherst team by a score of 7-6. Following up this win, the high spirited squad defeated Depew 13-0 (the first time in four years).

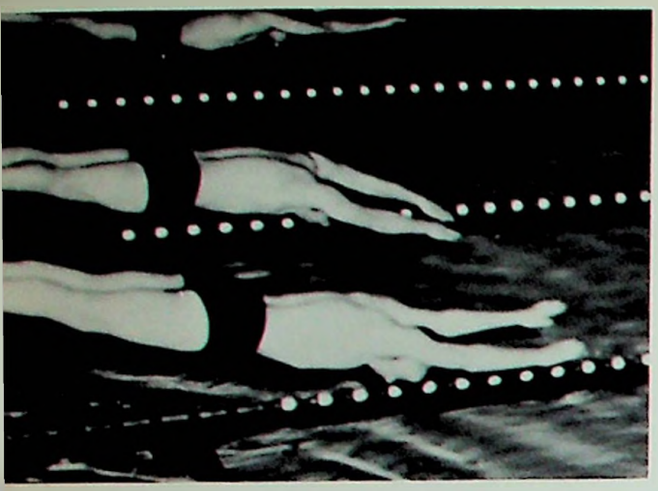
Rifle Team

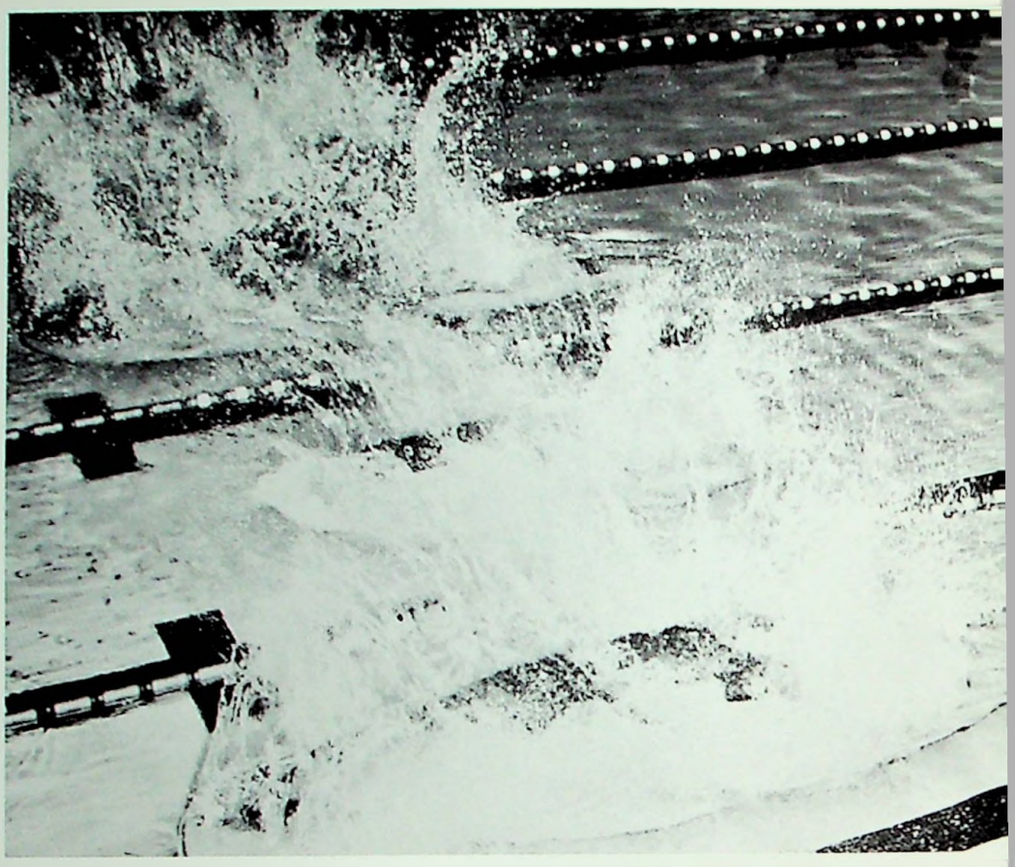
This year's rifle team started the year with high hopes of rebounding from last year's poor 2-8 record. The squad was composed of many new faces in freshmen and sophomore marksmen along with a first-year coach in Mr. Halbert. Led by senior Craig Erickson, the rejuvenated team has had a better season.

Hit the bull's eye, Craig!

The 1962 J.V. Football team, beset with inexperienced freshmen, had a somewhat unsuccessful season (1-7 record). With many of these freshmen and sophomores returning, next year's team should be much improved.



Lancaster Mermen



The swimming team was coached by Mr. Thomson, who successfully tried a new training technique. With promising upstarts Floyd Kruschke and Dave Witt and recordholders Ross McMillan, John Stock, Arvo Tars, and Niles Kin, the squad had a successful season.

Row 1: G. Severson, D. Dykstra, T. Schwartz, B. Westenfeld, D. Witt, D. Mustard, J. Troppman, W. Bund, T. Kirby. Row 2: Mgr. P. Stock, G. Keller, K. Schabert, B. Williams, J. Stock, R. Strong, R. Bowling

This year's bowling team, coached by Mr. Swierat, was a fine one. The team's leading bowlers were Tom Andrews, Tom Farrugio, and Gerald Hrycko, whose 199-229-428 set was the league high.

Wrestling

Several of our top varsity wrestlers having graduated, this year's team was hampered by inexperience. Dean Kaminski, the new wrestling coach, however, constantly worked to improve the squad. As soon as the new members gained some experience the team moved forward.

Volleyball

The 1962 Lancaster Volleyball team, coached by Mr. Java, first played a sequence of two out of three game matches which was followed by single matches with the same teams. Profiting by the clutch and overall good play of co-captains Dick Grotke and Darwin Overholt, the team emerged from this series as Division I champs with a 6-2 record. Lancaster then proceeded to defeat East Aurora, Class AA leaders, by scores of 10-6 and 14-6. Advancing further the squad decisively defeated Dunkirk (14-7, 15-0) to win the Class AA Section VI championship and a school trophy.

Varsity Basketball

With most of last year's squad having graduated, this season's Varsity Basketball Team was largely composed of inexperienced players. Mr. J. Walter, in his first season as varsity coach, worked long and hard with the boys and, consequently, came up with a representative squad. After having dropped a few close contests, the team moved on into contention for a Class AA playoff berth. Don Augustine was high scorer, having averaged nearly 20 points a game.

Junior Varsity Basketball

This year's Junior Basketball Team was a very good one. After a poor start, the team put together a long win streak to finish with a percentage well over .500. In his first season as coach, Mr. E. Woodard molded these boys, including many freshmen, into a well balanced squad. The exceptional players were Don Simme and Jim Jutzin with the other starters being Keith Schaefer, Joe Gioffre, Carl Kuras, and alternating Lou Sallie.

Tennis

Facing Division I competition for the first time, last year's Tennis Team finished sixth out of eight teams. The squad, coached by Mr. F. Karl, however, never lost its fighting spirit.

Junior Varsity Baseball

The 1962 J.V. Baseball Team, coached by Mr. G. Benz, was dominated by inexperienced freshmen. Consequently, they terminated the season with a 5-8 record. The exceptional switch-hitting of Dave Lipke and fine pitching of Don Bednarski and John Gebhardt, however, shed some assurance of a good team next season.

A fine senior nucleus having returned, the 1962 Varsity Baseball Team had a good potential for the approaching season. But the squad ran into bad luck when some close games were lost and Mr. Olszewski was hospitalized with an ulcer. With Mr. Foyle subbing, however, the team jelled into a late season streak resulting in a Section VI playoff berth (Lancaster's fifth in seven years). John Thomas (for the second consecutive year) and Stan Bielat were selected to the Erie County All-Star Team.

In its first season of Division I competition the Lancaster Track Team faired poorly. Having lost all league meets, but having defeated Depew, the squad was paced by Dick Grotke's record 2:01.8 half-mile. Art Stevenato shattered the pole vaulting mark with a 12' 4¼" record. Other standouts were Lester Staub, Gary Hammer, and Carl Kieffer.

Golf

Led by Albert Sillato and Bill Cross, the 1962 Golf Team opened its season with a poor start. Mr. Halbert, the new golf coach, worked with the squad and finally results started to show.

Ending the season with victories over Depew and Springville, the team concluded with a 2-8 record.
